Tea Party!

Afternoons like this define community at The Margot.

A little tea, sweet treats, and beautiful conversation turned a simple gathering into something special. We loved seeing everyone come together and bring such thoughtful energy into the space.

More of these slow, shared moments, always.

What They're Saying

YO.

"I've had a really great experience living here, and Elizabeth has been amazing. She's been incredibly helpful with a few different issues I've had and always responds quickly and kindly. It honestly makes such a difference to have someone who's not only professional and on top of things, but also genuinely nice and easy to talk to. Every interaction has been pleasant, and I've felt well taken care of as a resident.

Thank you for being so helpful and making this a great place to live!"

Live Well

Mental Health Awareness Month

Protect Your Peace

May is Mental Health Awareness Month, a perfect time to slow down and prioritize your well-being. Living in the heart of Bellevue offers so many ways to recharge, and we want to help you make the most of them. Here are a few "Protect Your Peace" tips to practice this month:

Unplug to Reconnect: Take a break from the digital noise and head to Meydenbauer Bay Park for a sunset walk. Sometimes the best way to reset is to simply leave the phone behind.

Create a Sanctuary: Use this month to refresh your space at The Margot. Whether it's adding a new plant or dedicating "quiet time" in your favorite corner, your home should be your ultimate retreat.

Practice Mindfulness Outdoors: Find a quiet spot in Bellevue Downtown Park for ten minutes of mindful breathing. Grounding yourself in nature is one of the quickest ways to lower stress.

Remember, taking care of your mind is just as important as taking care of your home. Let's make this a month of balance, connection, and true self-care.
